A NOTE FROM JIM

Strength Based Living

What are your Strengths? At this point in your life you must already know what you are good or even great at in life! You may be very efficient in doing some activity, or you may have great knowledge in a particular subject. For instance, is it developing relationships, analyzing the stock market, producing a piece of art, or understanding a complex problem? As a matter of fact, you may have many life strengths!

As we were developing through our education, we were taught to work on and develop our weaknesses, which actually makes sense in order to be a well rounded individual; however, a new thought in educational development is that we need to enhance our strengths instead.

Actually the Gallup research company has developed a program and a book for managers called STRENGTH FINDERS. This program helps managers identify their strengths. Also, it is to help individuals explore and identify their strengths and collaborate with others who complement their strengths and their abilities. I personally have applied and embraced this concept in my life and in my management duties.

There is a saying, "You can be anything you want to be if you work hard enough." Now I am not afraid of working hard at something, but if I am not good at numbers why waste my time and energy trying to be an accountant. The idea of this new program is to focus on your own special skills and passions, and work with those people who complement your skills and passions. Therefore, I have embraced this new saying: "You cannot be anything you want to be, but you can be the best of whatever you already are."

Therefore, to have a rich and meaningful life, we should focus on our strengths and how we can better serve others through our personal strengths. When focusing on your strengths or your abilities, you become more positive with others, you are more confident, and your whole attitude becomes more positive. This confident, positive attitude helps your brain activity, and you actually can become more creative.

I am sure we all know what our natural talents and passions are; however, there are actually some talents we have that need nurturing. That is why according to the "Strengths Finder" Program we need to continue to work on our strengths and, surprisingly, another talent may develop.

A true strength must meet these conditions:

- When thinking about the task, you are excited; you look forward to doing it.
- When doing the task, you tend to lose track of time; time flies.
- Once the task is completed, you feel genuinely satisfied and energized; you feel great!

Thank you for living here in our wonderful Twin Lakes Community. I am honored to serve you!

Medicare And Medicaid

How Can We Afford Them?

Nearly everybody will, at some point, get sick and need the help of health-care professionals. Finding the resources to cover these public programs is an ever-increasing challenge at a time when our national debt is at an all-time high. Ultimately, all Americans—policymakers as well as citizens—will have to face painful decisions about reducing the cost. This may mean fewer choices in health care for the tens of millions of people enrolled in these programs. The choices are difficult; the stakes, enormous.

Please join us at the next Friends of Twin Lakes Meeting on Wednesday, April 12th at 4:00pm in the Chapel. We will be discussing and voting on the role of membership within the Friends of Twin Lakes.

Build on Your Plans and Strengthen Twin Lakes

Take Your Support One Step Further

You may have already taken the initiative to create a will, set aside money for retirement and taken care of your family through a life insurance policy. Consider going one step further by using those tools to deepen your connection to Twin Lakes:

Remember Twin Lakes in your will or living trust. Including a gift to the Life Enriching Communities Foundation/Twin Lakes in your will or living trust is a simple way to offer future support. You can leave a specific asset, a specific dollar amount or a percentage of the residue of your estate.

Name Twin Lakes as beneficiary of your retirement account. Naming any individual other than your spouse as beneficiary of your retirement account exposes that person to income taxes and possibly estate taxes, potentially consuming more than half of your gift. Instead, name Enriching Communities Foundation/Twin Lakes as the beneficiary and your estate will receive an estate tax charitable deduction. We accept the balance tax-free and you maximize your gift.

Leave Twin Lakes all or a portion of your life insurance. Often overlooked as a gift, life insurance is an easy and flexible way to make an impact. You can name Enriching Communities Foundation/Twin Lakes as beneficiary of a percentage of your existing life insurance policy's death benefit.

Many people like to leave a gift to charity in their will because they care about causes that are important in their lives. We're here to help you determine the best way to support Twin Lakes through the Life Enriching Communities Foundation.
